J. P. CHRISTENSON DIES

AT HOME IN EPHRAIM

Ephraim, June 11.—J. P. Christenson, one of Ephraim's most prominent and progressive citizens, passed away Tuesday evening at his home.

Mr. Christenson was injured in a runaway just one week ago caused by his horse taking fright from a passing automobile. He sustained a broken leg and lay exposed for so long a time that when found the swelling was so great that the bones could not be set. He was en route to his farm at Fayette and was taken to Gunnison and afterwards to his home at Ephraim, but nothing could be done for him until the swelling went down.

Tuesday afternoon Dr. Richards of Salt Lake, Dr. Winters of Mount Pleasant, and Dr. Rees of Ephraim performed a surgical operation, amputating Mr. Christenson's leg above the knee. The operation was performed at home. Mr. Christenson came out of the anaesthetic but died within a few minutes.

Mr. Christenson was born in Ephraim June 17, 1862, and married Mary M. Alford in 1883. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Walter Sorrenson.

He has been very popular in civil and political affairs in the history of Ephraim, having served as city mayor twice, being justice of the peace, is a notary public and served as city councilman for many years, being one of the main boosters for the electric plant and water works system. He was also the first chairman of the Democratic party at Ephraim.

He was a farmer and stockraiser, owning farms at Ephraim and Fayette, where he was en route when the accident occurred.

Clark Griffith is no friend of the Cleveland Naps and neither are the Washington writers who assert that the Naps are insane about winning the pennant. Although the Naps won the last series from Washington and knocked the star pitcher of the Nationals from the box, Griffith maintains that they are only a flash in the pan. The leader of the Washington nine figures the race in the American league thusly: "Boston—Luckiest pennant winner there ever was. Had all the breaks in 1912. Is not getting this year."

"Philadelphia—Has not got the pitchers and its great batting ability cannot offset a weak pitching staff."
